

SCS Paris 2008 : a trade show with high added value

The SCS concept is reaching maturity after the first two events in Paris and Lyon. It has undergone many changes to be discovered on this site.

All the components making this trade show have been reviewed, modified and enriched in constant consultation with our customers, whether exhibitors or visitors. From now on SCS has as a "recurrent theme" the industrial and energy performance of companies which, all industries taken together, will find electrical, automation and mechatronics solutions at this trade show.

Technological monitoring, which is crucial at the design stage (the core market of the trade show), will be made easier with many varied events, whether conferences, user areas or product villages!

You will find on this site, on a regular basis, additional information on the program which you can expect in December, as well as many market data.

Your time is precious, so we wish to provide added value which you can apply directly in your business.

Enjoy surfing and have a nice visit!

Benoît Gauthier

